WOLFGANG LAIB

Biography

Wolfgang Laib was born on March 25, 1950 in Metzingen, Germany. He began to study medicine in 1968 at the University of Tübingen and became a doctor in 1974. Since then he has worked exclusively as an artist. In 1975 he made his first Milkstones; in 1977 he collected the first pollen; in 1983 he began the first works with rice, in 1987 with beeswax. 1988 he realizes the first wax chamber which is followed by several others all over the world, including a chamber in the Pyrenees made in the year 2000, and one next to his studio in southern Germany. From 2002 onward he makes major works with Burmese lacquer. 2009 he realizes a collaboration for an artwork and an exhibition with 45 Brahmin priests from South India in the Foundation Merz in Turin, opening up totally new dimensions in his work. He is currently planning the construction of a huge Brahmanda to be carved within the granite hills of Pulimalai – Tiger Mountain – near Madurai/India. He has spent much time in the Far East and in New York. He lives in a small village in southern Germany and maintains a studio in South India and New York.

1950 Born Metzingen, Germany.
Lives and works in southern Germany, South India, and New York.
